9.1 Project Based Learning

Project-Based Learning (PBL) is an instructional methodology that encourages students to learn and apply knowledge and skills through an engaging experience. PBL presents opportunities for deeper learning in-context and for the development of important skills tied to Institute and career readiness.

Characteristics of Project-Based Learning

Here are 3 characteristics of meaningful project-based learning activities that lead to deeper student understanding:

1) Inter-disciplinary: PBL focuses on engaging students with real-world problems. This is an interdisciplinary approach because real-world challenges are rarely solved using information or skills from a single subject area. Projects require students to engage in inquiry, solution finding to help address the real-world issue or challenge presented. As students do the work, they often use content knowledge and skills from multiple academic domains to successfully complete the project.

2) Rigorous: Project-Based Learning requires the application of knowledge and skills, not just recall or recognition. Unlike rote learning that assesses a single fact, PBL is more complex and can be used to assess how students apply a variety of academic content in new contexts. As students engage in the work of a project they follow a process that begins with inquiry. Inquiry leads to deeper learning, not just related to academic content, but also related to the use of content in real world applications. Inquiry processes can help lead to the development of solutions that address the problem/challenge of the project and the creation of products to communicate solutions to an audience based upon the application of content and skills.

3) Student-centered: In PBL, the role of the teacher shifts from content-deliverer to facilitator/ project manager. Students work more independently through the PBL process, with the teacher providing support only when needed. Students are encouraged to make their own decisions about how best to do their work and demonstrate their understanding. The PBL process fosters student's independence, ownership of his/her work, and the development of 21st century/workplace skills.

9.1 Implementation of PBL at PHIMSR

1. At the end of semester II, first year students are given potential project topics that cover aspects from all their coursework during the term.

4. Student groups select the projects of their choice and then prepare a plan for its implementation.

5. Students are evaluated twice during the coursework
